Honors Psychology Research Project Presentation

At the start of the course, students were asked to explain why they decided to take Psychology and what it was that they were interested in studying. As we have seen so far, Psychology covers a wide range of the human experience. It is virtually impossible to cover it all in an introductory semester course. So with this being the case, students will be given an opportunity to dive into topics of their interest as we move forward during the final weeks of the course.

PROJECT PRESENTATION REQUIREMENTS

• Students may work with one other person or alone. If you are in a class of 15 or more, I would prefer that you work with a partner. Seniors will present first and may work with a junior. All students are encouraged to use PIE time with Mr. True or study hall time.

• Before you present your project, you will submit a project brief (plan) which will include a statement of your interest about the topic, works cited page of at least five scholarly articles, and a description of what each person will cover (subtopics) during the presentation. A due date for this assignment will be given to you shortly. This should be no more then one page, typed please.

• A one to two page handout/brochure highlighting your findings and points of interest related to your topic. Include the name(s) of the presenter(s) and also your APA works cited. This should be distributed before you start your presentation on presentation day.

• 20 to 30 minutes in length should be the target for how long your presentation should last. If you need more time, please see me ahead of your presentation.

• Select three topics of interest. We will decide as a class who will present the chosen topics. Final topic choice must be approved by Mr. True. One of the goals of this project is to explore the variety of topics in the field of psychology, so there should be many topics available to be examined during these presentations. Repeat project topics will not be allowed for this assignment. Refer to end of Chapter Assessments in the text for Psychology Project ideas which can be found throughout the textbook.

- Research on your own. Limited to no class time will be given for library research.
• Project Presentation dates:

• Student suggestions for the project requirements include………

Your topic_________________________________

Your project plan due date_________________________________

Your presentation date_________________________________

Partner_______________________________________________

Special Notes:

1. Project Plan Completed and submitted on time___________________

2. Five Scholarly articles/Correct APA Format (plan)_________________

3. Handout/Brochure included in presentation_______________________

4. Correct APA Format on Handout/Brochure________________________

5. Time requirement met for presentation___________________________
Comments:

Student:

Instructor: